. . [spouse]{.ul} his mother. He is not finding the right job. So he works a minimum salary job to . . . pay off his mother to get rid of his father. He keeps on trying to find a job but fails. . . after 30 years he is trying to pay his mom off but his mom still talks to his dad and his mom leaves him to her boyfriend. He now works for . . . [newspaper]{.ul} and his parents need his money. Context: In India, parents tend to pressure their sons into early marriages and also the husbands tend to oppress their wives. This kind of pressure from the family members on the boy side and the husband is against the autonomy of the girl is common. This means that the girl has to make a decision to either stay with a man she does not like or return to her family. A [Desi]{.ul} [Sikh]{.ul} girl falls in love with a [Desi]{.ul} [Hindu]{.ul} boy. It was like two souls were finally united. She was ready to live with her love and take care of him, but her family did not accept the relationship. They asked her to get engaged to someone else. Her mom, brother and aunt all supported the engagement. Her parents wanted her to be accepted by the boy's family and the boy's parents wanted his sister to marry a non-Muslim. The parents were very adamant and said that she would have to get married to a Muslim. Both families were not ready to give up their marriage, but the girl and boy did. Theme 2: the Challenges faced by Desi Adolescent Girls {#Sec13} ----- Background: In India, the situation of girls is very different from the boys. The studies show that girls do not learn much in schools, they are not given equality and they are exploited . . . to the point of being a burden on the family. In the study, Jagu waale jo rishtey hain means that men are not strong. This means that it is the girl's responsibility to be strong. This is also backed by the fact that girl children are not fully accepted in their parents' house. This means that the girl child should come back home only when she has the freedom to make 82157476af
